

The Band Aid

Band aids cure all, at least that's how kids view them. After a five-year-old girl discovers her daddy crying alone in his room, she searches for a band aid to help him stop crying. A kind neighbor gives her a band aid and she rushes home to give it to her daddy. Touched, he sits her down and explains that there are some wounds that band aids cannot reach, but tells her of a different cure. She understands that this alternative cure requires spending time with her daddy and giving him hugs, so that she can be his band aid.
